

Pettit Center Skating School Guidelines and Policies
As of September 14, 2020

We welcome families back to the Pettit Center for the start of the 2020-21 Skating School season. We believe in the physical and emotional benefits of skating and learning to skate. Given the unprecedented challenges and restrictions of the current environment, we are implementing rules, guidelines, and policies with intent to help assure the safety and health of all.

1. Only on-line registrations, in advance per the deadline on the website, are permitted. Sorry, no registrations in person on the first day of classes. Skate Rentals need to be done at the same time on the website, also.
2. All skating school students, their parents, and instructors are required to wear masks 100% of the time that they are in the building. The intensity of the skating activities is not high, so they are not putting demands on the cardiovascular systems of the skaters.
3. Given the cap of 250 people being permitted in the building at one time, by the City Health Department, we must limit entry to one (1) parent with each child in the Skating School session. We respect that the presence of a parent is valuable and even necessary for the youngest students. This may be relaxed depending upon the class registrations or if the Health Department increases its cap.
4. Class offerings will be limited, as will class sizes, as we focus on maintaining sufficient space between groups and individuals on the ice during the class sessions. Please enroll early to get the classes and times you desire.
5. Since the Center re-opened in mid-June, our admission procedure has included having all persons entering the building pre-registered on a list and being given a quick temperature scan. If any one is not feeling well, with symptoms generally described on the signs on the front door of the Center, we are requested that they STAY HOME for the health and safety of others.
